IR2 (1. Pomeranian)
IR8 (von Rütz) survived the war with L’Estocq Armeekorps and on 27 November 1807, a battalion was formed using the remnants of I-III battalions and the 1. Neumark Reserve Battalion. A second battalion was organised from the cantonists of the IR17 (von Treskow), IR19 (Prinz Oranien), IR22 (von Pirch), and IR36 (vacant Puttkammer) infantry regiments. The grenadiers were formed from the Grenadier Battalion von Massow [IR8 (von Rüts) and IR42 (von Plötz)] and Grenadier Battalion von Jung Braun [IR31 (von Kropff) and IR46 (von Thile)]. On 7 September 1808, these two units were used to form the IR2 (1. Pomeranian) as part of the Pomeranian Brigade.
In 1812, the regiment provided the II and Füsiliere battalions for the 3. Combined Infantry Regiment. In 1813, the Füs/IR2 as part of Wittgenstein’s Avant-garde fought at Werben (24 Mar), Lüneberg (2 Apr) with 350 Berlin volunteers captured six guns and two colours of the Saxon IR Prinz Maximilien. Then fought at Gehrde (12 May), Ochsenwerder and Nettelnburger Schleuse (30 May).

In 1813, the I-II/IR2 was part of III (Bülow) Armeekorps, Army of the North being engaged at Vehlitz (Möckern) (5 Apr), Hoyerswerder (28 May), Ochsenwerder and Nettelnburger Schleuse (30 May). The reunited IR2 fought at Luckau (4 June), Baruth, Mückendorf and Zesch (17 Aug), Mellin (21 Aug), and Gross Beeren (23 Aug), Schmielkendorf (26 Aug), Hohenschlennen (27 Aug) and Thiesen (3 Sept). At Dennewitz (6 Sept 1813), I/IR2 attacked a 12-pdr battery and was halted at 45m by canister and a volley fire from the Saxon Anton IR and lost ninety men killed or wounded before retiring. Later in the battle the regiment took twelve guns and the colour of the Bavarian IR9 (Ysenburg). The regiment participated in the battle of Wartenburg (24 Sept), the blockade of Wittenberg (15 Sept-11 Oct) and at the clash at Elster (2 Oct). At Leipzig (16-19 Oct), the IR2 captured sixty-three guns (including eleven guns at Ranstäder Tor), sixty-six munition wagons, twelve generals, eighteen colonels and 8,000 men.

In 1814, in 5. (von Borstell) Brigade of III (von Bülow) Armeekorps fought at Hoogstraaten (11 Jan), Lier (25 Feb), Sweeghem (2-7 Mar) plus the investing of Maubeuge (19-29 Mar) and Soissons (28 March-24 Apr).

In 1815, as part of 5. Brigade of II Armeekorps was involved in the prolonged and bitter fighting at Ligny (16 June) where each 800 strong battalion was reduced to less than 500 men commanded only by captains. IR2 arrived at Waterloo (18 June) just in time to spearhead the final attack on Plancenoit. Most of its losses occurred around the church and cemetery. Lost First Lieutenant von Mirbach, two NCOs, and two other ranks killed, 2. Lt von Stempel, four NCOs, one drummer and forty other ranks wounded. A further drummer and seventeen privates were missing. Then it participated in the immediate pursuit of the broken French army. IR2 was present at the investment of Maubeuge (20 June-12 July) and Philippeville (27 June-8 Aug). IR2 (1. Pomeranian) Grenadier Regiment König Wilhelm IV of the Imperial Army of 1914 traced its ancestry to IR8 and IR17 of the 18th century.
